“Innovations for Resident-as-Teacher Programs: A Scholarly Track”

Jeremy Moeller, MD
Assistant Professor of Neurology, Neurology Residency Program Director
Yale School of Medicine

Dr. Moeller completed medical school and neurology residency at Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia, Canada. He did his fellowship training in Epilepsy and EEG at Columbia University in New York. Dr. Moeller is currently completing his Msc in Clinical Education at the University of Edinburgh. He has a strong interest in neurology education, particularly assessment and the use of technology in EEG education. Under his leadership, the YSM Neurology Residency Program has developed a clinician-educator track for residents, which promotes the development of teaching skills and educational scholarship.

Learning Objectives:

1. Discuss the Neurology Resident-as-Teacher Certificate Program
2. Discuss how to design a curriculum for Resident-as-Teacher Programs
3. Examine strategies to assess residents as teachers

ACCREDITATION

The Yale School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

The YSM medical education community requested seminars on enhancement of faculty teaching and curriculum writing.
